a coretta scott king author honor book this moving picture book portrays a girl who met injustice with dignity and excelled booklist starred review macnolia cox was no ordinary kid her idea of fun was reading the dictionary in 1936 eighth grader macnolia cox became the first african american to win the akron ohio spelling bee and with that win she was asked to compete at the prestigious national spelling bee in washington dc where she and a girl from new jersey were the first african americans invited since its founding she left her home state a celebrity right up there with ohio s own joe louis and jesse owens with a military band and a crowd of thousands to see her off at the station but celebration turned to chill when the train crossed the state line into maryland where segregation was the law of the land prejudice and discrimination ruled on the train in the hotel and sadly at the spelling bee itself with a brief epilogue recounting macnolia s further history how do you spell unfair is the story of her groundbreaking achievement magnificently told by award winning creators and frequent picture book collaborators carole boston weatherford and frank morrison an up close look at the education arms race of after school learning academic competitions and the perceived failure of even our best schools to educate children beyond soccer leagues music camps and drama lessons today's youth are in an education arms race that begins in elementary school in hyper education pawan dhingra uncovers the growing world of high achievement education and the after school learning centers spelling bees and math competitions that it has spawned it is a world where immigrant families vie with other americans to be at the head of the class putting in hours of studying and testing in order to gain a foothold in the supposed meritocracy of american public education a world where enrichment centers like kumon have seen 194 percent growth since 2002 and target children as young as three even families and teachers who avoid after school academics are getting swept up drawing on over 100 in depth interviews with teachers tutors principals children and parents dhingra delves into the why people participate in this phenomenon and examines how schools families and communities play their part moving past tiger mom stereotypes he addresses why asian american and white families practice what he calls hyper education and whether or not it makes sense by taking a behind the scenes look at the scripps national spelling bee other national competitions and learning centers dhingra shows why good schools good grades and good behavior are seen as not enough for high achieving students and their parents and why the education arms race is likely to continue to expand
